It was a combination of things compacted into the year that made it a unique experience that can never happen again.

It was a matter of beauty, natural and man-made beauty of the campus, that we all enjoyed and turned to for encouragement whenever the need arose.

A peaceful moment in the ravine, a walk by the Stratton pond, or a seat in view of the Powell fountain at night, each served as an outlet for our feelings when things got hectic. Each encouraged us to take a minute and put our lives into perspective.

But at times we needed something more . . . a real force to help us through the hills and valleys of our lives. In times such as those it was a matter of . . .

Thompson

Individuality served as the force that set us apart from the other 12,660 students at the University. Everyone found their own way to express themselves. For some it was simply quiet time, alone, to get in touch with their inner thoughts and feelings. For others it was time spent enjoying a hobby, skateboarding, music, or time to read a favorite book.

Time alone was a must in order to survive. We all needed our moments to be ourselves and express those characteristics that set us apart, as individuals. We needed to experience ourselves. Yet there was another aspect that was very necessary in our lives. It was a matter of . . .

Friendship enabled us to share ourselves with others, to become stronger and more aware by experiencing a relationship.

It was comforting to know we had friends to socialize with, study with, or just talk to when there was a need. Having a friend to share our ups and downs made each and every day more valuable.

We all needed friendship, yet for some a stronger form of relationship was needed. To fulfill the needs of those, it was a matter of . . .

Thompson

Love and a relationship with someone of the opposite sex was necessary to fill a void for many. These relationships supplied security and allowed deeper feelings to be expressed.

We all need to be loved and cared for. We need that gentle touch, that encouraging smile that assures us that we're ok, the close companionship that gives our lives a greater meaning.

In addition to a one-on-one relationship, we needed a wider circle of companionship. In addition to love there was a matter of . . .

Fellowship gave us an opportunity to express ourselves in a group, to compete, to socialize, to share our individuality with a group of people that had some of the same interests and goals that we did.

Through fellowship we participated in and became part of a larger group at the University. It was a matter of . . .

Thompson

Society — the entire University became a community within itself, and we made up that community just by being students, together in one place.

We were an organized group that numbered to 12,660 with a common interest — an education.

We went to class, we ate, we slept, we socialized, we played, we worked all in one private, secure little world — The University campus.

Together we formed a unit. Unity; for we represented Eastern and Eastern represented us, and the experiences that we lived through.

Together, but separately, we experienced 1983-84. A year that happened. A year that was meaningful and worthwhile regardless of the GPA we made, how many friends we had, or how many times our hearts were broken.

All that matters is that we have grown, we have learned, and we have experienced another year, together, at the University.

FRESHMAN ORIENTATION

The Beginning

Everyone has experienced the confusion of being in a new place and not knowing where to go or who to ask for help, especially at a university. Twelve years ago a program, summer orientation, began for all incoming freshmen. Skip Daugherty, in conjunction with the College of Undergraduate Studies, has been in charge of orientation for the last six years.

This year the program lasted from June 20 to July 28. "It was an excellent year," said Skip Daugherty. The sessions averaged 150 students per day plus their parents. Only ten percent of the 2,874 registered students did not attend. Many of the incoming freshmen and their parents took advantage of an overnight stay in the dorms while at the university. It let them see where the students would be living during the year. These students got an idea of how big the rooms were and just how comfortable the beds could be. In addition to several sessions on anything from housing to food service, campus tours were given to help the students get a head start on finding classrooms, the library, and even the grill. Amid all of this, students registered for classes at times when there were no other pressures to worry about. "If I had not done it when I came down, I would have been lost," said Linda Ross, a nursing major from Russell, Ky. Tracy Hobbs, an accounting major, also from Russell, agreed. "The scheduling was helpful, and my parents liked it too," she said.

The program gave many students a working knowledge of the campus and allowed them to complete registration while focusing on individual needs.

Orientation has continued to grow in acceptance with parents and freshmen alike. Summer orientation for many students meant finding out about the place they would be living for approximately nine months a year for the next four years. It was a good beginning to their college experience.

An Asset to Richmond

"The community's quality of life and economy is very dependent upon Eastern Kentucky University," said Sue Chenault, Executive Director of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce. "Some businesses even close down during spring, Christmas and summer breaks," she continued to say. University-related jobs and students contribute to one-fourth of the economy of Madison County. The University not only brings a source of income to the county, but also industry. She added that the University is a strong selling point with industrial manufacturing firms to locate in Richmond. "Eastern provides education, cultural activities, athletics, business and volunteer work to the community," Chenault noted.

The University is also diversified in what it offers to Madison County. Mrs. Chenault said that, for instance, a public relations class at the University drew up the proposals and plans for the Golden Leaf Tobacco Festival that takes place in November in Richmond. Chenault noted that the festival could not have been a success without the knowledge of the public relations class.

"In addition to supplying manpower, students also have specific technical skills not possessed by our staff that we've been able to use," said Beverly Fogle, director of the Marc Center, which has been in existence since 1969 and is a private agency that provides services for mentally retarded and physically handicapped citizens in Madison County. The Marc Center is one organization that benefits from Eastern students. They raise money, renovate the Marc Center building, sell the clients' crafts, and even try and locate jobs for the clients. Students serve as interns to the Marc Center through programs such as social work, occupational therapy and vocational rehabilitation. Campus organizations such as Kappa Delta Tau, Association of Law Enforcement and Student Council on Exceptional Children volunteer their time to help the Marc Center.

The University is a vast pool of resources that offers Madison County an available source of manpower, which enables the community to "grow" both financially and culturally as well as meeting its physical needs.

RUSH

A Different Opportunity

It began innocently enough. A meeting here, a committee there, an interview, and on and on. The preparations began before the last semester ended. Nancy Holt, assistant director of Student Activities said, "each sorority submitted a detailed report for their fall rush program by April of the last school year." This let each group get organized over the summer. Many of the sororities did just that by conducting summer retreats to work on skits and prepare scenery. Those that remained during summer session completed much of the busy work then.

In the fall everyone arrived the first day the dorms opened to put the final preparations into action. This offered a special chance for each sorority to renew relationships and catch up on summer news. During these few days floors were decorated, and costumes gathered. Skits were rehearsed again and again. Letters were painted, name tags drawn and cut, balloons blown up, gowns ironed, and candles counted. The days begin at 8:00 and may end around midnite. In the girls' spare time they unpacked and tried to make their rooms convey a message about themselves.

One special group of girls served as Rush Counselors — Rho Chi's. These girls went before a selection board, completed interviews and attended training sessions during spring semester. The morning of the first rush party they disaffiliated from their sororities. For the next five days they lived in a motel room with another counselor not in their sorority. They could not speak or even acknowledge anyone in their organization, especially in front of rushees. The Rho Chi's purpose was to answer questions rushees had concerning any of the sororities, and taking the girls from party to party. "Being Rho Chi's gave each girl a chance to see her organization and the others operate from the outside — it increases their objectivity concerning their own group," said Nancy Holt.

The same process begins again and again. For the many women who go through rush it signifies a new beginning; for the actives, it is a regeneration of their sorority. In the end everyone involved experienced a different opportunity in college life.

SUMMER SCHOOL

A Matter of Necessity

Your last final is over. Everything is packed and stuffed into the car. As you drive out of Richmond, you've realized another year has come and gone. Visions of homecooked meals, sleeping late, fun and sun pop into your head. It's that three month vacation you've worked nine months for.

For some students that isn't quite the picture they had in mind. It is business as usual for them in the summer. The next 12 weeks they will spend in intersession and summer school classes.

Reasons for attendance in summer school are as varied as the 3,754 people who attended last summer.

The most obvious reason was lack of jobs; because most businesses refuse to hire students knowing that those employees will be lost in the fall. Transferring, program changes, adding minors, and changing majors brought students to the University. Graduating on time was the main focus for students such as

William McCoy, music education major from Radcliff, Ky.

Repeating courses to improve grades is an added incentive to attend summer school. The final, and probably the biggest reason people flocked to the University was summer and December graduations. Leesa Woolums, senior communication disorders major from Canaan, In. was one of the many August graduates finishing up in summer session. Connie Holbrook, senior business education major from Winchester, Ky., came to take that last class before student teaching and December graduation.

Still there remains another group of people who attended; teachers who were studying three months out of the year to receive a masters degree and maintain their certification. Linda Wilson, who teaches elementary education in Lexington is a good example.

Although school was the primary focus of the students, they found fun and sun, and mini-vacations anyway. When it was all said and done, the necessity of summer school was worth it, even if a 12-week vacation had to be crammed into two.

RESIDENT ASSISTANTS

Responding to Students

He sits alone, twiddling his thumbs, staring at the four concrete walls of his dorm room. He tries to remember what all he did this weekend, but it all seems foggy. He bows his throbbing head just as someone knocks at the door. It's his R. A. Oh! "O/X*". He's never been too keen on R. A.s. They're always butting into people's business. But this time it was different. He guesses his R. A. happened to be the right person there at the right time. He invited him in and his R. A. sat down. They talked for several minutes about different things, but as they both gazed at the mess surrounding them, the topic turned to that. He bowed his head again, but this time tears were running down his face. He knew he needed help. His R. A. was aware there was a problem, so he made himself available to his neighbor. It was not an accident.

These people have no real names. But they could represent any dorm resident or R. A. on campus. Most people don't think of an R. A. as a counselor, but instead, that of a plainclothes detective. According to the Dean of Men, Dr. Howard Allen, counseling other students is one of the primary functions of an R. A. Sincere interest and concern for people enables an R. A. to carry that out.

Scott Mandel, an R. A. at Commonwealth Hall, feels his job is an excellent course in human relations. Besides having to know your entire floor of residents, being an administrator, communicator, and enforcer of rules and regulations, an R. A. must be on call 24-hours a day if an emergency arises. "You even play mother sometimes," one R. A. admitted. The same R. A. went beyond the call of duty and bailed one of the residents on his floor out of jail. Despite the varied hours, having to give disciplinary action, getting late night phone calls, and more; the R. A.s agreed that the rewards of being a resident assistant far outweighed the disadvantages of the job.

LIVING ON

Fresh out of high school? Tired of having to be home by 11 p.m., making your bed or mowing the lawn on weekends? If you answered "yes" to any of the questions above, there may be a place for you at University Estates.

University Estates offers more than 3,300 rooms for the individual ready to make it on their own. There are rooms to fit almost any taste, ranging from the traditional design of O'Donnell Hall to the more modern style of Telford Hall. Rooms are furnished with 2 beds, 2 desks, 2 chests of drawers and plenty of closet space. These are not the best features of University Estates, however. As a special offer, right now rooms run from only $368 to $378 for a rental period of four months. Plus, this low price includes all utilities and recreational fees.

In addition, each room has access to kitchen facilities, private restrooms and showers, private lounges and game rooms.

The kitchen facilities have all the conveniences of modern technology. The stoves are costly antiques from the 1960 Sears and Roebuck catalog. Each sink comes complete with its own plunger.

The private restrooms are another excellent feature of University Estates. Depending on which day of the week it is, the resident can have either hot or cold showers. Each toilet is supplied with complimentary toilet paper from Brand X Sandpaper Company.

For rest and relaxation or to just entertain that "special" friend, University Estates provides luxurious lounges, equipped with only the most comfortable of couches. They give excellent back support since an erect position is the only one possible. The decor is impeccable. Stripes, checks, plaids and solids combine to make each lounge an abstract heaven.

If there is nothing of interest on television, or if your back is just getting sore, University Estates provides fully equipped game rooms for hours of entertainment. Nearly every game room has a pool table and a ping pong table, some of which even have paddles and balls.

University Estates also provides laundry rooms in each of its residences. Each machine has special built-in features. No longer do you have to wear a new pair of jeans for a year to give them the lived-in look. Each machine, for only 50 cents, will personally chew each article of clothing for you.

University Estates has a stern and enforced policy of not allowing pets. Pets destroy property and can cause rates to rise. However, University Estates does realize the emotional importance a pet can play in one's life. In accordance with this belief, University Estates provides each resident with his or her very own cockroaches. Cockroaches cost very little to feed and are very loyal and loveable. There are few experiences more heart-warming than cuddling up next to your pet cockroach on a cold winter night.

University Estates is also "home" to one of the largest educational facilities in Kentucky. Residents who apply themselves can earn associate, bachelors and even doctorate degrees. It is the policy of University Estates that all residents take advantage of these facilities. Vacancies open in August and January, get your reservations in now!

NIGHT HOSTESSES

They Call Her Mom

Did you know that your "mother" lives at Eastern? She's not just at Telford, O'Donnell, or Todd Halls — she's at every dorm. You'll never see your "mom" during the day, but she'll always be there to greet you when you return late at night from studying or maybe from a big date. Of course, we're talking about that person so special to us — the night hostess.

It takes special qualities to succeed as a night mother. According to Pearl White at Burnam Hall, being a good listener is the key. Sometimes it is best to just listen and not get too involved or give advice.

Night hostesses agree that getting to know the students, especially the freshmen, is the most enjoyable part of their job. Most admit that they have shed a few tears over students who have graduated.

From learning about foreign countries and different cultures to learning about values and attitudes of students, hostesses have a highly educational job. One night hostess even ventured to say that college life has taught her not to send her children to live in a dorm. Another hostess, Orlena Barnes, shared what an inspiration it is to see how the girls take care of one another. She explained how one particular girl had waited up all night in the lobby for her roommate because she was worried about her.

Dorothy Bowling, of Combs Hall, recalls an amusing incident. Last year, a live opossum was put in the lobby of Case Hall. The two culprits admitted to sharing their "pet" to add a little excitement to the night.

Sometimes students don't realize that night moms are there to protect them and to help in case of an emergency.

Below: Palmer mom, Pearl Simpson, fills her nights completing crafts, such as afghans, quilts, and dolls.

In other words, "We help take care of problems that may affect students during the night." Walking floors, checking the outside doors every hour, answering the phone and watching the lobby are normal responsibilities for the dorm hostess. Many read, write letters, quilt, or just talk to help the hours pass.

For Eldean White of Miller, Beckham, and McCreary Halls, working as a night hostess is like having a house full of girls. She enjoys that feeling because she has three sons and no daughters of her own.

Several of the hostesses have been at their job for seven and eight years. Some never dreamed that they would be working as a night hostess for that long. Interesting changes have occurred during these years, such as extended open house and lobby hours. "You have to change with the times," stated one night mother.

Not just any woman can be a night mom. It takes a person with love, patience, and wisdom to share as well as genuine concern to be called "mom."

A Knight to Remember

Tension is in the air; because tonight is a night of magic. The Gifford Theatre, filled to capacity, has been transformed into an ocean of on-lookers. Somehow, the audience can tell that Broadway Knights: A Musical Tribute to Broadway's Greatest Composers is no ordinary musical. With fourteen talented entertainers and a classy backdrop, the greatest composers of this century are ready to take the stage again. As the audience sits back and reminisces, strains of Gershwin, Rodgers & Hammerstein, Jerry Herman and Steven Soundheim wisk them through almost a century of musical history.

The creative costumes and the theatrical light-show transcended time and space and gave the audience a chance to utilize their imagination. The transitions between time periods was pronounced, but subtle enough to keep the action moving. This multi-faceted Broadway interpretation unfolded in phases. Each composer was highlighted in his own era, and was eventually succeeded by another composer. Some of the all-time favorite songs were highlighted, with a special spoof between Dolly Levi and Auntie Mame. The only thing left to do was to hold on to your seats and get ready for the ride of your life.

Above: Tim Coleman and Dana Gisler gave the kind of high-energy performance that made Broadway Knights "the" musical of the year. Below: This multi-talented group of Broadway-ready stars put the audience on the edge of their seats and kept them there all night long.

Top: Ernie Adams and Dana Swinford took the stage and gave a performance that would have made Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers envious. Left: Carol Owens grabbed the spotlight and took it for what it was worth, while Lynn Henrikson and Jerry Sheets gave a brilliantly choreographed performance. In keeping with the Homecoming theme, "Music, Music, Music," the University's football team struck the final blow by beating Austin Peay 31-14 on October 2, to put the finishing touches on a captivating fall day.

The Homecoming festivities began with the traditional pep rally in Alumni Coliseum. As the cheerleaders and pep band fired up the crowd, Coach Kidd spoke and introduced his senior players. The 15 Queen finalists were also introduced.

According to Student Activities Director Skip Daugherty, the University did not sponsor a dance this year, due to lack of student interest. Instead, they sponsored a local talent show entitled "Mostly Music From Campus Stars." Student acts performed and the 15 Queen finalists were introduced.

Of course, there were lots of last minute details to be completed before the game on Saturday. Celebrative students put the final touches on many colorful floats, and maintenance spruced up the campus for alumni, parents, and friends. Lots of time and effort was put into decorating the dorms and even the fountain in the Powell area was restored to working order.

The weather cooperated for the parade on Saturday morning and a large crowd turnout resulted.

The IET Club and Alpha Gamma Delta sorority collaborated to win the contest for most beautiful float, and Martin Hall received the honors for best decorated dorm with a scene from the folk song "Cabin on the Hill," a victory song sung by the football team.

The day's events climaxed with the crowning of the 1983 Homecoming Queen, Miss Elizabeth Cummins, during the pregame festivities.

COLONELS OUTRANK GOVERNORS

The sky was gray. The air was cool. It looked like a repeat of last year's Homecoming. The only difference was that the sky parted and the sun came shining through. Tension was in the air. Austin Peay was on their way.

"Austin Peay is definitely for real," said Coach Roy Kidd before the game. "Anytime you can hold Western Kentucky without a touchdown, you have a good defensive team." Going into the game both teams were 3-0 overall.

Rushing was the key word for the Colonels in the game as they rushed 56 times for 184 yards. Terence Thompson, a senior from Owensboro, carried the ball 25 times for 113 yards.

Above: Terence Thompson carried the ball 25 times for a total of 113 yards in the game. Below: Austin Peay comes face-to-face with two EKV tacklers. The Colonels held the Governors to 53 yards on the ground.

By game time, the crowd of 19,200 was ready for a good game and that is just what they got. Simon Codrington caught a 5-yard pass from quarterback Pat Smith in the endzone to put the Colonels on top to stay at 7-6.

Eastern lived up to its reputation as a national power by scoring throughout the game, finally coming out on top 31-14. The Homecoming crowd left satisfied as did Coach Kidd, who won the 150th game of his career at Eastern.

Homecoming Queen

Elizabeth Cummins

Every little girl at sometime in her childhood dreams of being a queen. But, as they grow older, they set aside that fantasy. For Elizabeth Cummins, a forgotten dream became a reality. Homecoming 1983 was one of the many days that will stand out in her memories.

"Words could not describe my thoughts when they said my name," said the pretty blonde from Somerset, Ky. "I couldn't cry or laugh," she said. "All I could think of was, it's nice to be a winner for such a special group of people."

Elizabeth takes being a campus representative very seriously. For the junior Mathematical Sciences major, being sponsored by Gamma Beta Phi meant a lot to her.

"I wanted to make my best impression on the judges," she said. Involvement in campus activities and organizations, while maintaining a high grade point average, says alot to them about a person. For Elizabeth, her record spoke for itself. This year she was active in the Baptist Student Union, Gamma Beta Phi, and was junior advisor to Lambda Sigma. Elizabeth served on the Homecoming committee, and helped develop this year's theme. Student Senate also holds her interest. Her involvement on the Committee for Committees has increased her awareness in student rights on campus and campus politics in general.

What spare time Elizabeth has is spent jogging on-campus, playing the piano, and people-watching.

With beautiful weather for the parade, friends wishing her well, and an exciting pre-game ceremony, Homecoming 1983 will be remembered for years to come.

People . . . Alike Yet Different

All of us at one time or another have felt like a number in the University community. It does not matter if we work for the University or are an attending student, the feeling is still there. What matters is that while we are all together we are interacting as a whole unit. Some of us are more prominent than others, naturally, but that does not matter. It is our own special way of smiling at a stranger or the style of practical joke we play on someone we care about that lets us stand out. Dropping the labels everyone automatically receives is a great help. Nobody likes being known exclusively as Greek, a freshman, a janitor, security, or whatever before being known as an individual human being. True, the classification can help us remember the person, but only being known for or by it can be stifling to one's individualism.

With people all around us interacting and affecting one another, we each have a fully developed identity with the fingerprints of those who surround our daily lives imprinted on us forever. That is what makes us as human beings, alike yet different.

Sidewalks lead these students to unknown destinations.

A freshly shoveled path makes way for students as they go to classes.

STUDYING

A Valuable Skill

You Get Out of it, What You Put Into it

In recent history the catch words at cocktail parties, political rallies, and class discussions were "excellence in education." These three simple words brought many to their feet voicing memories of teachers who did not teach, lack of money put into education, and the good old days when you got what you put into education. Well, as Harry Truman said, "the buck stops here," as far as higher education goes.

The Milestone staff conducted an anonymous, unscientific survey of 360 university students and their study habits. Of the studies received, the staff evaluated 251. There were 36 questions dealing with different aspects of study methods, extra-curricular activities, and personal statistics. Some of the percentages were thrown out because several questions were not answered or were answered irresponsibly.

The questionnaire was given in several different locations at different times to obtain a better student population mix. Approximately one-fourth of the students fell into each academic year—freshmen, 20%; sophomores, 29%; juniors, 25%; and seniors, 26%. There were more women surveyed with 67%, and men held 33% of the surveys. Of the group, 3% were married and 7% were commuters.

1. How many hours a week do you study overall?
1-4, 9%; 5-9, 37%; over 9, 52%.
2. Why do you study?
grades, 51%; knowledge, 28%; success, 5%; employment, 4%; expectations, 3%; parents, 2%; interest, 2%; graduation, 1%; other, 4%.
3. How many all-nighters did you pull as a freshman?
zero, 49%; one, 9%; two, 10%; three, 9%; four, 3%; five, 5%; six, seven, and ten, 1% each; twenty, 2%; too many, 5%.
4. When you study do you: read the materials only, 8%; read notes only, 11%; read and underline notes and materials, 65%; make notecards, 9%; pace while reading, 4%; other, 3%.
5. Where do you study?
dorms, 55%; Powell, 3%; library, 30%; home, 9%; other, 3%.
6. Study breaks varied from every chapter, 20 minutes, 2-3 hours, or they didn't take breaks at all. They were spent eating, sleeping, and just moving around.

MONSTER BASH

As Dorothy said, "Lions and tigers and bears, oh no!" What could be any scarier than things that go bump in the night? Halloween, the holiday that originated over 2,000 years ago with the Celts, brings out the wild antics of any child at heart. For many of us trick-or-treating and dressing up in costumes ended long before high school graduation. Yet, here at the University, one night a year anyone on campus can let their imagination run wild.

Monday, October 31 saw hobgoblins of all persuasions descending upon the Keen Johnson Ballroom from eight o'clock til midnight. Anything from clowns, little girls, walking dominos, kitchen appliances, the grim reaper, and pregnant brides could be seen dancing to the music of World's Away. If you weren't careful, gorillas were liable to bob more than their share of apples from the barrel.

Costume awards went to Kermit the frog as the cutest, Mr. Tas the scariest, and a two-headed scarecrow as most original. Approximately 1,000 people took advantage of the Bash, sponsored by Women's and Men's Interdorm with proceeds going to the United Way campaign.

"Let The Music Play"

Everyday you turned a dial and began the day with music. Everything from pop to classical was heard in dorm rooms or in cars on the streets. The songs we heard were inspirational and sometimes gave us courage to deal with life's unpleasanties. For the most part, however, they were good for a fast escape from reality. One thing was certain, music and its influences were here to stay.

Fads have come and gone, but none will be remembered more than the "new" look in popular music groups of the early eighties. Adam Ant, Boy George and Prince may have begun a trend with makeup and earrings. Hairstyles also took the spectrum in style and color. You could have had curls all

WANTED

Wanted: Caring people, willing to have fun, fellowship and have an eagerness to meet new people and make new friends. Also, a desire to find out who you are as a person and who created you. If interested, contact any Christian organization on campus.

Many students applied to this "make-believe" ad during their time at the University and found through the various Christian organizations a comfortable, at-home atmosphere.

The Christian organizations, which consist of the Wesley Methodist Foundation, Campus Crusade for Christ, Inter-Varsity, the Catholic-Newman Center, Christian Student Fellowship, Baptist Student Union, Navigators and the Westminster Fellowship, offer a wide variety of activities that reach within the organization as well as reaching outward to the campus and community. Sign language classes, visiting nursing homes, delivery of meals-on-wheels to the elderly and shut-ins and aerobic classes are just a few areas of interest. Attending weekend retreats are a welcomed event sponsored by the organizations, whether it be to a nearby town, far-off Gatlinburg, or the beach, it provides a getaway from the pressures of school. Dances, recreational activities, movies, roller skating, etc.—there is no end to the array of fun. But just as there is a carefree side to life so also is there a serious side that follows. From small Bible studies to large group gatherings, it is all offered with one purpose in mind—learning and sharing the news of Jesus Christ.

Whether these organizations are participating in a social or spiritual matter, or maybe just sitting around in one of the Christian centers, fellowshiping with others with a common bond, it is a growing trend among Eastern students.

A CELEBRATION OF

Christmas

... here I am, sitting alone in my dorm room, watching another Christmas Special. It's hard to believe this is already December and the holiday season is approaching. I feel far removed from the excitement and the anticipation. Instead, my mind is on other things — final exams and just wanting to get out of this place. I need a break; to regroup and think about what these holidays are all about.

...the snow gets me into the holiday spirit. I don't know why, but I get excited about just seeing and tasting the snow flakes.

...Christmas caroling is what I like to do best of all. I love to sing songs that get people into the holiday mood. I like to see their smiles. That is what Christmas is all about — sharing, smiling, being with friends and family. Coming back to someone's home for hot chocolate and homemade cookies ends a great evening of caroling.

...decorations everywhere, on the street, in the house, in offices, stores and schools. It makes me know that this is not just another time of year — there is a special aire about it. I hear the jingle bells sound. I see the wreaths. I smell the Christmas trees and the fresh baked goodies. There's definitely something in the air.

...I look forward to seeing the live nativity scene many churches put on each year. It puts me into the frame of mind of what Christmas really is. And I try and think of how Mary and Joseph must have felt on the blessed night of baby Jesus' birth. But the best part is that He grew up to become a man — A hope for tomorrow and a reason for today.

Christmas — A Celebration with: friends, students, co-workers, and family.

Christmas — A Celebration of: Jesus Christ, sharing, giving, joy, family, and life.

Christmas — A Celebration of Love.

NON-TRADITIONAL STUDENTS

Wiser with Age

Non-traditional students, who are they? Non-traditional students are those students who wait several years after completing high school or after taking a few college classes to complete their college education. They come back to school for a variety of reasons such as for better job opportunities, to fulfill goals, and to be involved. These students do have different problems in comparison to the traditional student. Conflicts at home, adjustment to the college atmosphere, and acceptance by those around them are concerns of the non-traditional students.

Due to the delay in returning to school, many non-traditional students have families and home responsibilities that must be attended to while they further their education. Non-traditional students find that they have to use time efficiently in order to get their daily activities done. College also conflicts with the time they can spend with their families. Mrs. Pat Bowen admitted that her two children "didn't like their mother studying all the time." Families are usually supportive of their college student. Parents attending college also set good examples for their elementary and high school children. Mrs. Barbara Randolph said that her children "expected her to do well in college, and they try harder because of her example."

Time and family adjustments

Right: Jean Winburn uses University facilities, such as the Powell Building for studying, in the same manner that other students would are only a small part of the adjustment problems non-traditional students face. They must adjust to younger students, to studying again, and to college procedure. Mrs. Jean Winburn admits she had trouble finding out about and going through different administrative procedures when she first started school, but with the help of Mrs. Jacqueline Maki and Dr. Martha Conaway she has learned the administrative procedures and learned how to study again.

Adjusting to the students is less of a problem than the non-traditional students expect. Non-traditional students think that they will be out of place, before they come to college, and not be accepted by the other students. Mrs. Regina Schultz thinks "that other students treat us (the non-traditional) like one of them and in certain situations they look up to older students." Non-traditional students and other students study together and occasionally participate in other activities together.

Non-traditional students make up a small percentage of the total University population, but they add to the learning experience. The traditional students are getting to meet and adjust to a larger variety of people with the existence of non-traditional students at the University. The non-traditional students do have a lot of knowledge and experience to share with the other students and faculty, after all an important part of a college education is being involved with other people.

Royal Winnipeg Ballet

The Royal Winnipeg Ballet is Canada's oldest existing professional ballet company. They were formed in 1939 and received their royal title in 1953. Not only has the ballet company been awarded international acclaim, they have also won numerous awards for elegance, choreography, artistic achievement, piano accompaniments, and performances. Artistic director, Arnold Spohr was given the Annual Dancemagazine Award for outstanding contributions to the world of dance.

Five of the 34 ballets from the company's repertoire were performed beginning with LES PATINEURS. The grace and fun was simulated in this ballet as it was centered at an ice-skating rink in the nineteenth century.

After brief intermission ALLEGRO BRILLANTE was presented. The thirteen minute ballet is set to the 1st Movement of Tchaikovsky's unfinished 3rd Piano Concerto. The beauty and grace was accented by the pale pastel colors in the costumes.

The simple costumes of LE CORSAIRE PAS DE

DEUX lent credibility to the storyline. The three act ballet is based upon Lord Byron's Poem 'The Corsaire.' Solar, an Eastern Slave, tries to win the love of a beautiful vision through high leaps of adoration.

The ballet LENTO, A TEMPO E APASSIONATA was accompanied by a piano. The powerful jumps and lifts blended with the three Scriabin pieces to carry the audience to a height of excitement weaved by the dancers' intricate moves and the lighting details. Appreciation was bountiful with several curtain calls and a bouquet of roses for the ballerina.

RODEO tells the story of a tomboyish Cowgirl hopelessly in love with the Head Wrangler at the Burnt Ranch. As the Cowgirl dances to catch his eye and win him over, the Wrangler is roped by a pretty girl in skirts. Square dancing, brought the entire company together as a renegade wrangler catches our tomboy's eye with his own dance style. Ending on a positive note where the cowboys' get their girls, the audience was fast to show their appreciation with several minutes of applause.

MARRIED STUDENTS

Double The Education

It takes many types of students to make up a university. Commuters, full and part-time students, as well as graduates, come together to form this varied and intricate community. But seldom remembered is yet another facet of the university: the married students. These students, who live both on and off campus, have managed to combine two lives: the life of a student and their own married lives.

"Being married and going to school means learning to budget your time," said Kent Miller, an education major. "My day is planned and I don't have much free time." Miller lives in the University trailers with his wife Dana, and two year-old daughter, Brooke.

Many married students spend much of their free time studying. Andrea Johnson, a nursing major said, "My studying gets done late at night. When you have a small child and a husband to take care of, you study when you can."

Tom Son, a history and philosophy major said, "In the dorm there wasn't anything to keep me from studying. Now I would enjoy spending time with my wife instead."

Even though studying is an important part of any student's life, married students must also cope with the idea of learning to live together.

"Patience is important in marriage," said Kim Whittenberg. Her husband Scott agreed, "It's hard to come home and realize your spouse may have had a hard day. You need to find time to talk with each other."

In order to have time to spend with each other, one couple scheduled a German class together. Another couple enjoys the time they spend for lunch each day. This enables these students to balance their time together.

Being married and being a full-time student requires a lot of hard work, but there are advantages. Living in university housing is one example.

Dana and Kent Miller, who have lived in the trailers since May '83, agreed that it is very economical. "It is very nice living near other married couples with children," said Dana. "Everyone is in the same situation and the children are in a good atmosphere. We take turns babysitting for each other."

Tom and Natalie Son, who live off campus, enjoy the privacy of living in an apartment. It is as economical for them to live off campus, as it is to live on campus.

The relative inexpense of university housing is actually only secondary to the concerns of the married students. The happiness of being able to have both their education and each other is the real reward.

A favorite special was a 2-for-1 price on all baked goods after 8:00 p.m. mmmmmmmmm goodmmmmmmmgood!!!

Opportunity Knocks!

You could be the proud recipient of a new job if you are an education major. Career Development and Placement has an ongoing program called the Colonel Connection. This service takes job inquiries from the surrounding counties and states and coordinates them with students, in mid-summer, who have completed a teaching degree. So the next time you wonder what the future has to hold for you, just ask someone in the CD&P office and you could be on the way to the job of your choice.

Roses are red
Violets are blue
Touch that flower
And I'll arrest you

There is nothing more heavenly than the scent of blossoms that someone special hands you. Beware though, you could be an accomplice to a crime. The charge is criminal mischief for picking a little bud planted on university property. Those of you who cackle at the thought won't as you are escorted on a complete tour of the local judicial system and then presented before the disciplinary board. The next time you are lucky enough to get flowers, do not accept them if they are still connected to their roots—this is a dead give away—or unless they are wrapped in the green tissue paper used by florists. I do wonder though, are all charges dropped if the flowers were dead!

2,520,000 Pages

Currently, the University's yearbook has the largest press run in the state with 7,500 copies printed and delivered each spring. In case you are interested, there are 536 cases with 14 books per case in the shipment. Each book weighs 4.2 pounds and the total weight is 31,500 pounds.

SO YOU WANT A JOB.

What was that number?

The next time you see a tree trimmed in that everyday substance—toilet paper—remember that in a 12-month period, the amount "consumed" at the University is 288,000 ROLLS. If that doesn't get you, each roll has 70.3 square feet and the new figure becomes 20,246,400, yes, million square feet!!!!

Buck Rogers Move Over

SUITCASING STILL CONTINUES

NO COMMENT!

Eat up, soup's on.

If you eat on the meal plan or enjoy the cuisine at the Powell eateries, then these numbers may astound you. In one year the food service personnel prepare for our consumption 75 tons of hotdogs, five tons of popcorn, 105 tons of hamburgers, 90 tons of chicken, and 80 tons of fish. That's a lotta meat. To satisfy your french fry cravings, five trailer truckloads (semi's) are prepared. Don't ask how much catsup was used or the caloric values of those potato sticks. Once you have eaten the meat and veggie, you will need to quench your thirst. Six trailer truckloads of coke syrup are swallowed by the University in a year. Talk about the big gulp!!!

Thompson

Where's the Beef?

To be "hip" in the seventies you spouted off phrases like "keep on truckin'," "far out," "cool," and "right on." These were said at least once an hour to be "with it." The eighties new "in" vocabulary sounds like this. "Can we talk," "grow up," "chill out," and "get a grip," could have been just some of the phrases heard while passing through the Powell Building. Who knows, in five years perhaps even these phrases will sound silly to people who used them. Know what I mean, Vern?

New Recreation Spot!

On December 27, 1983, Commonwealth and Todd halls were the recipients of extensive water damage with the latter sustaining the heaviest losses. The problem seemed to be that the pipes froze and burst over the semester break. Brian Owens, Todd Hall's director returned to find water pouring into his apartment and ice everywhere. Look at it this way Brian, we all paid for rooms, but you got an indoor skating rink and pool for free!

As long as there is snow, there will be children like ourselves to play in it.

WINTER WONDERLAND

Complaint Department

You always hear someone complaining that freshmen should not be allowed to have cars on campus. Think about this. During the '68-'69 school year, freshmen could have cars BUT could not use them during the week without permission from security, and then the owner had to check his own auto out and back in when he was finished. Why bother!?

Did you know?

Every Thursday 9,000 copies of the Eastern Progress are read or cut up for coupons and Kevin Grimm cartoons?

Could you hold, please?

Is your roommate selling your clothes? Is the washing machine eating your quarters but giving no wash? Have the roaches borrowed your foodomatic card again and made your balance zero? Are you simply tired of the old college run around? Never fear, the Student Association has come to the rescue again with its telephone Gripeline. This 24-hour service was designed last fall to alleviate those burdens that can face us daily.

Lambert

CONSERVE

Every time you leave your room lights on unnecessarily, you contribute to the $165,000.00 electric bill the University pays each month. By the way, the water bill is $45,000.00 and the gas bill is $48,000.00 per month. Contributions are taken the first of each semester.

AMERICA'S FIRST

History made Kentucky style!

While many of the surrounding states held elections, Kentucky was in the national limelight with their own. Democrat Martha Layne Collins was running against Republican Jim Bunning for the state's highest office—the governorship. Collins literally took her opponent to the cleaners via the voting booth, winning soundly by 82,883 votes. Locally, Madison Countians voted her into office by an 861-vote margin. On campus, 462 voters turned out, and again Collins won with 242 votes. Can political history be made again in the national elections? We'll have to wait and see.

Checkout time

Six years ago, the University came to grips with its open house policies. During the '78-'79 school year, participants of evening visitation could actually close their doors and enjoy some privacy. Imagine what it would be like trying to have a "sincere" conversation with the door open!

Kuchle

Do you know where your stereo is? Has your digital clock radio walked off lately? If it has, can you identify it? All of the dorms held a special Operation Identification day when security personnel were more than happy to engrave those irreplaceable valuables with the students' social security number. So whether it's your Sony Walkman or your Gucci loafers, put your personal John Hancock on them and keep them.

Logical Thinking

Since the beginning of the state police in 1948, there has never been a mounted patrolman. At one time, however, motorcycles were used. The question is, why is there a statue of a mounted state patrolman in front of the Perkins Building? Beats us.

Roll Call

In the fall of 1982, every county in Kentucky was represented at the University except Hickman, Lyon, Carlisle, and Edmonson. One-hundred twenty-two students represented 33 foreign countries also, including Kuwait, Greece, and Communist China. We must have a great deal to offer in order for these students to leave their homelands.

Makes the Transition Easier

Through a mock interview, Art Harvey tries to show the students how CD&P can help improve their business etiquette and communication skills.

They say the hardest thing next to getting married is graduating from college. The point is, it doesn't have to be so hard. That is why Career Development and Placement is here. This office, located in the Jones Building, has been helping seniors, undergraduates, and alumni look and prepare for jobs since 1922. Until the seventies, this was mostly teacher-oriented.

Today CD&P has matured into one of the most influential parts of the student's college life. Part of the reason for this is Kurt Zimmerman, the Director of Career Development and Placement.

"Our job is to attract the prospective buyer to the best possible product he can receive—the graduating senior," said Mr. Zimmerman. This is the placement side of CD&P.

The Career Development side basically orients the undergraduate toward understanding the relationship between academics and career. "We are the people who cultivate the employers. Our job is to assist the student in the marriage of academics and career placement opportunities," said Zimmerman.

A few of the services provided by CD&P are workshops, mock interviews, and a data bank of possible career choices. CD&P provides an excellent chance for students to become acquainted with the job market and the many things expected of them as they enter. It is here to make the transition from college to the working world that much easier. Taking advantage of these services may make the difference between losing a job and having that extra edge on the next graduate. After all, it is your future and your future is what you make it.

Theory and Practice Combined

One of the things we want out of life is a good job. So what do we do? We grow up and go through twelve years of schooling, and then try to supplement the previous education with college. All this in an effort to do one thing, to prepare us for life and a job. All this sounds fine, but college isn't the only place to look! A relative goldmine that we inadvertently overlook beckons us to see what we are missing. This is the world of Cooperative Education, or, put simply, Co-op.

Located in room 417 of the Jones Building, Co-op is a special service provided by EKU to help orient students with the working world and the things expected of them while they serve in that world.

Co-op also provides the student with a potential job after college work. The extra incentive would be that you can receive college credit for working at a co-op job site. One basic and yet overlooked advantage would have to be the priceless work experience that you gain by being in the program. After all, anyone can get a job, but it takes someone with that extra zest for life to get the job they have always wanted!

Sarah Bowling, a senior from Radcliff, Ky., is just one of the personal success stories that used Co-op to assist in her new broadcasting job.

GRADUATION

A NEW BEGINNING

Dear Diary:

Once upon a time I came to college, an eager, naive, and terrified mess, and began a journey that was supposed to end four years later, but actually took five to complete.

A heavy sigh of relief works its way up from my insides as the future — my future — looms in front of me. The visions of marriage, mortgages, insurance, children, and a membership at the country club dance in my head as I am handed the old sheepskin. My conscience is telling me that it's time to step out of this cocoon called college and into the real world. Remember when we thought this was the real world? Dad is as proud as a peacock. Mom is crying again. (Why do mothers always cry?)

Packing seems to take forever. I don't think my diploma will look right hanging next to my Garfield "Nap Attack" poster. Putting the last of my "Go Big E" mementos away seems so final. That word "final" conjures up visions of allnighters, counseling sessions with the night hostess, pizzas, and anything with caffeine in it. Now it just means no more 8:00 classes, library sessions, boring professors, football games, and friends. Friends — well we said we would stay in touch, but life goes on and so must we. The time has come to say "Goodbye."

Goodbye, Big E — take it easy.

Just An Ordinary Season

The 1983 football season saw the Colonels win their third consecutive Ohio Valley Conference title and finish the regular season with a record of 7-2-1. Losing to Boston University 24-20 in the first round of the NCAA playoffs ended the Colonel's hopes for a fifth consecutive trip to the championship game. To most teams, their successful season would be a major accomplishment. But to Colonel players and fans, it was just an ordinary season.

Maybe this team wasn't as good as last year's team in talent or experience, but it did find a way to win. One of the things that helped this team overcome a lack of experience and talent was their outstanding defense.

The defense had just two players returning from last year's championship team. Somehow, Coach Joe Blankenship and the rest of the Colonel defensive strategists were able to combine freshmen with experienced backups to form one of the country's best defenses. As a group, the "Dead Zone" and company held opponents to an average of 270 yards per game.

It was the first true defensive test for the Colonels. The University of Akron came to Hanger Field with their "all-everything" running back, James Black.

The Colonels were leading 10-5 and Akron had the ball on their own 32-yard line. The Zips marched the ball to the Colonel one-yard line. With a fourth-and-goal, the Zips gave the ball to Black who went over the line. He was stopped. The Colonel's defense had arrived.

Then came Middle Tennessee, ranked 17th in Division I-AA. Middle came into the game leading the nation in scoring with an average of 49 points per game. EKU quarterback Pat Smith turned in his most impressive performance of the year, hitting 10 of 16 passes for 78 yards. The defense proved itself again, holding the Raiders to only seven points in a 14-7 win.

WKYT-TV of Lexington came to town to cover the 58th meeting between Eastern and the Western Kentucky Hill-toppers. Playing in a driving rain, the Colonels held their rivals to just 113 yards of total offense to their 284. The Toppers came back in the fourth quarter to score and end the game in a 10-10 tie.

Next, the Colonels traveled to Murray State to face the Racers. Murray capitalized on numerous Colonel turnovers and mistakes in route to a 23-10 victory. The loss ended the Colonel's string of 22 consecutive OVC wins—an Ohio Valley Conference record.

Terence Thompson picked up 100 yards giving him a career total of 2,940 yards. Then came Boston. Then came the rain. Then came to the loss.

Boston Rains on Colonel's Parade

Thompson

It all happened so slowly. Colonel Pat Smith dropped back in the pocket with only seconds remaining in the game. Smith unleashed a 45-yard pass to a group of receivers in the end-zone. The ball bounced and bounced before falling to the rain-soaked ground. Eastern lost. No championship this year.

The Colonel's season ended on that play. They had just lost to Boston University 24-20 in an opening-round playoff game. Despite horrible conditions and a talented opponent, the Colonels fought to the end.

It didn't look like Boston would be competition for the Colonels when Tony James took the game's opening kickoff 98-yards for a touchdown. But Boston came growling back. The Terriers, thanks to three Colonel fumbles, scored three times to lead 21-7. The Colonels added a field goal before the half.

"I kinda knew this team wasn't as good as the teams we had the past four years, but this dynasty isn't over," said Colonel mentor Roy Kidd.

Colonels Take a Big Step Forward

After the last home game of the season, Colonel head basketball coach Max Good took the PA system and talked to the crowd in Alumni Coliseum. In the short speech, Good summed up the season for his team.

Good thanked the fans for their support and told them that he will produce a winning program. That is what Max Good has worked and strived for since he took over the head coaching position.

This season was just one more step taken towards that winning program. Good produced a 5-21 season his first year as coach. The Colonels were 10-17 last year and 11-16 this year. He has improved every year.

The Colonels faced Auburn with Charles Barkley and Memphis State with Keith Lee and company. Both of these teams were nationally-ranked. They also faced Xavier University who beat Marquette and Dayton who topped DePaul University.

"We over-scheduled," said Good. "We thought that the tough schedule would reap us benefits down the road. It will allow us to attract quality athletes to play here."

Don't get out the crying towel for the Colonels just yet. They may have had a losing season, but there were some bright spots. There were rays of sunlight through the dark clouds.

Tony Parris Tops Nation in Freshmen Scoring

Freshman sensation Tony Parris led the nation in scoring for freshmen. He had an 18.4 point per game average. His high game of the year was 28 points against Xavier.

"His physical abilities jump at you," said Good. "He is amazingly consistent. He is awfully good with a chance to get better. He is a tough chore to stop."

Assistant coach Ferguson also brought in two junior college transfers who performed well. Phil Hill, from Mt. Olive Junior College was the top field goal percentage shooter in the OVC with an average of 59%. John Primm, from Cumberland Junior College had an 8.4 per game rebound average which ranked him in the top two in the league.

Another bright spot for the Colonels was the play of sophomore John DeCamillis. DeCamillis had a school-record 15 assists against Kentucky State and averaged over six assists a game.

"Our players played hard," said Good. "Our players respond to hard work. We're not far away (from being a contender). We need more inside players and a little more depth."

Lady Colonels Make OVC Tournament

"This is the best team we've had since I've been coaching here at Eastern," commented ECU coach Dianne Murphy. Many factors contributed to the success of the 1984 Women's basketball program. At the beginning of the season, high goals were set, and the journey of reaching those goals began. Eastern faced one of its toughest schedules since entering the Ohio Valley Conference and becoming an NCAA Division I school.

Defense has been the key aspect in the strength of the team. Eastern had an excellent defensive team, not only with the starting five, but with a very sound bench that contributed much to the team. Although the Colonels were plagued with injuries early in the season, the team healed their wounds and became stronger toward the end of the season when it counted the most. Throughout the regular season, the Colonels lost five games under four points. Every single game proved challenging for the Colonel team.

Most fans do not realize that the OVC is a very strong and highly competitive conference. Also, other regular games against teams such as Kentucky, Louisville, Duke, Wake Forest and Dayton did not make the schedule any easier.

Eastern also hosted their own Holiday Classic Tournament and came away with victories over Evansville and Duke, and the championship trophy.

The captains for the team were seniors Karen Evans and Lisa Goodin. Lisa Goodin ended a remarkable season and career by shattering Eastern's all-time scoring record. Goodin was also selected to the All-OVC team for the fourth consecutive year.

Finally, coach Dianne Murphy had an excellent and outstanding staff this year. Assistant coaches Nell Hensley and Linda Myers and graduate assistant coach Karen Freeman have made a significant contribution to the strengths and successes of the team. The "chemistry" was present between the coaches and players and added the spark that made the Colonel's season a success.

Hockey Team Finishes Strong

Youth and inexperience may hinder some team's success in a season, but not Eastern's field hockey team. Of the eighteen players chosen for the squad, the majority were young, but talented. Early into the season, these players did not understand the meaning of playing intense NCAA Division I Field Hockey. Yet, as the season progressed, the Colonels learned from each game while gaining experience.

Highlighting the season were three consecutive victories over the University of Dayton, Transylvania, and the University of Louisville. In the games against Dayton and U of L, Eastern fell behind 1-0; however, they came back to pull off 2-1 wins. Few of the games were easy for the Colonels. Eastern suffered losses from Davis & Elkins, ranked 14th nationally, and James Madison, ranked 19th. Eastern needed the come-from-behind victory over the University of Louisville to record a .500 season.

Coach Lynne Harvel stated, "There was so much improvement, individually and as a team. They never gave up and never stopped believing in themselves. They kept trying and got better as they played." The team captains were Kathy Boughton, Robin Forhecz, Mary Gavin, and Julie Theiler. Eastern closed the season with a record of seven wins, seven losses, and two ties.

It was a bittersweet victory for the Eastern Kentucky University women's volleyball team as it captured its third consecutive Ohio Valley Conference championship, but failed in its attempt to receive an NCAA tournament bid.

Eastern rolled through the OVC tournament undefeated and finished the season with a 29-19 record.

"The conference championship was the highlight of the season," said senior Patsy Schachnuk. "We were a completely different team than in the mid-season tournament. Nobody could beat us."

Senior Lori Duncan probably described Eastern's season perfectly when she called it a "roller coaster" year.

The Colonels came into the season with guarded optimism as they lost their starting setter, a top reserve and their star player, U.S. Olympic team member Deanne Madden.

The team faced a schedule that was laden with nationally-ranked teams including the No. 2 team in the country, the University of the Pacific.

Men's Cross Country Wins OVC Meet

Through a season of speculation, the men's cross country team captured the Ohio Valley Conference Championships in October.

The victory was especially sweet because the University failed to field a team last season. That posed youth as a problem for this squad.

It wasn't too surprising then that head coach Rick Erdmann had a little less than optimistic outlook on his team's chances.

The Colonels won the OVC championship with 46 total points. Middle Tennessee finished second with 49 points. Murray State, tourney favorites, were third with 52 points.

The Colonels were led by senior Ron King, who finished fifth. The other finishers were Jay Hodges in sixth, Andy Muehler in seventh, Steve Duffy in eighth and Darrin Kinder in 20th.

"Everybody ran a good race for once," said Hodges. "We all ran together as a team."

"They really surprised me," said graduate assistant Dave Schaufuss. "You could tell they wanted to win."

WOMEN'S CROSS COUNTRY WINS O.V.C. TITLE

The women's cross country team won its second consecutive Ohio Valley Conference championship this year behind the running of freshman Barb Lane.

Lane led the Colonels to an impressive outing as the maroon tracksters placed five runners in the top ten of the race. Lane, from Middleton, OH, led all runners with a winning time of 17:57.

Lane, termed "a pleasant surprise" by head coach Rick Erdmann, never finished lower than second in any meet the entire season.

Maria Pazarentzos finished fourth overall in the race. Pazarentzos said the closeness of the team members and their ability to run together helped in winning the tournament.

Leading to the OVC meet, the Colonels beat the University of Cincinnati in a dual meet. They also finished second at the West Virginia and Appalachian State Invitationals and third at the Western Kentucky Invitational.

Swimmers Finish 3rd in Midwest

The Electrifying Eels shocked their opponents this year with one of their most successful seasons in recent history. They compiled an 8-win, 3-loss dual meet season, the best record in nine years, and set 15 school records in 12 different events.

The Eels finished their season by capturing third place in the prestigious Midwest Independent Championships, held March 1-3 at the University of Illinois at Chicago. This was the team's highest finish in five years. They finished sixth in last years championships. Senior co-captain, Brian Conroy captured three individual first places, while first-year competitors Steve Dial and Mark Eschliman each had one championship win.

Coach Dan Lichty, in his ninth year as head coach, was selected as Co-Coach of the Year in the Midwest Independent Championships.

1983-84 record setters included Brian Conroy in the 100-freestyle and 100-backstroke, Don Combs and Mike Kirsh in the 100-breaststroke, Mark Eschliman in the 3-meter diving, David Mercer and Mark Maher in the 100-butterfly, Steve Dial in the 500-freestyle and Scott Vennefron in the 200-butterfly.

Colonels Shoot Way to Nationals

Competing in the NCAA National Championships has become rather common place for the rifle team. The Colonel riflers finished a disappointing sixth in last year's tournament and were seeking to improve on that finish this year.

Coach Capt. Mike McNamara was confident of a high finish before the tournament saying, "I think we have a chance of winning it all if everything goes right. But realistically, I'm looking to get second place." Well, that's exactly what happened as the Colonels finished second, a disappointing but respectable second.

The Colonels progressed well through the season as they opened competition with a second place finish to Tennessee Tech in the Western Kentucky Tournament.

The Riflers then went on a shooting spree as they shot their way to tournament victory after tournament victory.

The Colonels captured the Buccaneer tournament at East Tennessee State University, winning both the smallbore and air rifle competitions. They topped ETSU, Murray State and Tennessee Tech.

The UK Invitational Tournament title now belongs to Eastern as they finished first over powers such as UK, Air Force and Tennessee. Xavier University was the Colonel's next victim.

The biggest victory, which enabled the Colonels to reach the national tournament this year was their route over the competition in the sectionals.

The Colonels totaled 4,625 points in the smallbore competition and 1,527 in the air rifle for a total of 6,152. This high score gave the Riflers a first-place finish over Ohio State, Xavier and Rose-Hulman.

Six Colonel members tried out for the Olympic team in April in California. Ana Hogrefe, Tracy Dunham and Suzanne Keefe tried out for the women's team with Mike Bender, John Griffith and Danny Wigger competing for spots on the men's team.

Inexperience takes toll on Women's Tennis team

Inexperience took its toll on the Ladies Tennis team last spring as they suffered through a 4-5 season.

"We expected a tough year," said senior Susan Wilson. "We were lacking depth."

The Lady Colonels had a strong team through the top four players. Those spots alternated but usually consisted of Chris Halbauer, Kristi Spagenberg, Susan Wilson and Joy Rupert.

The Lady Colonels lost their first duel match 8-1 to Ohio State after an impressive showing in the EKU Invitational.

The Netters then split their next four decisions beating Ohio and Marshall by identical 8-1 scores. These victories sandwiched two losses to Morehead State and Miami of Ohio.

Middle Tennessee then fell victim to the Colonels by a 7-2 score. Kentucky and Alabama set the Colonels back with consecutive losses, 8-1 and 6-3 respectively. The Netters then climaxed their season with a victory over Akron and a third place finish in the OVC tourney.

Performing To A Tee

The 1983 Colonel's spring season was a carryover from the year before. The major highlight of the season was an exciting 23-stroke victory in the O.V.C. tournament hosted by Eastern at the London Country Club. Once again the Colonels had the individual medalist in Russ Barger, an outstanding freshman golfer. Pat Stephens, the 1982 O.V.C. medalist, took the runner-up position falling two strokes short of the leader. Juniors, Kelly Finney and Barry Wehrman each fell one stroke short of making the 1983 All-O.V.C. team.

The Colonels took their talents to places such as Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, and West Virginia, finishing in the top nine or better in all of their tournaments.

The team looks forward to a good season next spring since they will lose only one senior to graduation.

NETTERS FINISH SECOND IN OVC

Head Tennis Coach Tom Higgins was pleased with the play of his team. Who could blame him? Higgins' netters finished second in the Ohio Valley Conference tournament in the spring.

"I was real pleased with the season finish," said Higgins. He also commented that if a few close matches had fallen Eastern's way, the Colonel's could have finished first.

Higgins felt this squad was the "best team since he has been at Eastern."

The Netters blazed through the first four matches of their schedule going 4-0. However, they hit a snag losing the next four of five matches. The Colonels tuned up for the OVC tourney with a 5-4 victory over Middle Tennessee.

"Believing" Gives Colonels A Winning Season

The Colonel team had a good season as they finished with an impressive 23-16 record; believing made them winners.

The 1983 season was highlighted by the naming of four Colonel players to the All-Ohio Valley Conference team.

Picked for the All-OVC team were junior center-fielder Rocky Pangallo, sophomore outfielder-second baseman Brett Forbush, senior first baseman Mike Woehler and junior lefthander Steve Engel.

Pangallo led the Colonels in batting with a .387 average. He also hit four home runs and knocked in 30 runs.

Woehler, a four-year letterman hit .345 with 10 homers and 31 runs batted in.

Engel, who made All-OVC last year as a sophomore, had a 5-2 record on the mound. He set a school record of 196 strikeouts and was among the nation's best averaging 11.57 strike outs per game.

Head Coach Jim Ward's Colonel team finished in second place in the North Division of the Ohio Valley Conference with a 7-5 league mark.

The Colonels were eliminated in the double-elimination OVC tournament to decide the league's representative to the NCAA Tournament.

Colonel Tracksters Make NCAA Tourney

For the fourth consecutive year, the Colonels were represented at the NCAA Track and Field Championship. Rick White, Stan Pringle and Kevin Johnson were among the Colonel runners who traveled to the championships.

White was a double qualifier in the 100-meter dash and the 4x100 meter relay. He qualified for the 100 meters with a 10.32 performance in the Penn Relay championships.

The NCAA tournament was the climax of a season that saw the Colonels finish third in the Ohio Valley Conference Championships.

The Maroon tracksters also finished first in a Tri-Meet with Marshall and Cincinnati. They finished second in a Tri-Meet with Kentucky and Tennessee. The rest of the meets were individually scored.

The team's seasonal performance was so impressive that they were ranked by Track and Field, a nationally-published magazine.

Having finished the meet with eight 1st place, three 2nd place, five 3rd place, four 4th place, two 5th place, and one 6th place wins, Coach Rick Erdmann said, "We were pleased with the team. Ostbye, Pararentzos and Gilmore were outstanding."

For the fourth consecutive year EKV was represented at the NCAA Track and Field Championships held in Houston, Texas from June 1-4. Representing the EKV women's team was Clarissa Gregory and Rose Gilmore. Gregory and Gilmore were two of the main reasons Eastern was able to post two meet championships — their first Becky Boone Relays title and their second O.V.C. championship in the past four years.

Gilmore was selected to be a member of the United States Junior Track and Field Team for 1983. "Rose is a very gifted athlete and we're anxious to see how she will compete against some of the world's best younger runners in this international competition," commented Coach Erdmann. The U.S. team captured second place behind Canada in July of 1983.

President Powell Stresses “Value-Added Education”

“The general concept about education is that it is a process that adds value to the quality of life. All in all, it is the value we try to add to the student’s life through education,” said President J.C. Powell.

Powell said that he is trying to find ways to measure what that value is and to enhance it. A way of measuring the value is by urging the faculty members to renew their efforts and increase the higher education experience. He explained that “value-added education” refers to the measurement of skills and knowledge when a student is a freshman and then testing the student at graduation to see how much he has improved.

“I think throughout the time that I have been president, I have been trying to stress a theme that has to do with quality. This is not to put down the level that did exist, but some areas needed improving,” said Powell.

The University president said a formal coordinated planning process for the University is underway. “The process happens to involve time — a five-year segment. We are trying to get all of the segments of the University to provide us with a sense of direction that will enable us to allocate our resources wisely,” said Powell.

This year, the University will review and provide goals and objectives by each college of the University. Powell said the need to consolidate, review our progress, and improve areas which need improving would be an important aspect of the first-year planning effort.

A testing association looked at a sampling of schools across the nation ranging from very large institutions to small prestigious institutions. They measured the gain of knowledge of general education in the first two years,” said Powell. The University ranked as one of the top two institutions.

The other way you measure the gaining of knowledge is by the acceptance of graduates in employment or in graduate schools. Powell said he thought that University graduates are liked; nursing is ranked tops in the state.

In addition, Powell said that as President he tries to stress an overall theme — “improving the quality of our offerings.”

Board of Regents

Reorganize

Reorganization was the key word for the Board of Regents this year. After the death of Charles Combs, Tom Harper was appointed to fill his seat. J.W. Phelps was elected to serve as chairman with Hallie Shouse as vice chairman. Dr. Stumbo accepted an appointment to the Council on Higher Education and Dr. Robert Warren of Lexington was seated on the Board in his place at the November 5 meeting.

Furthermore, the Board approved President Powell's reorganization plan for educational programs. The members created two new positions — associate vice-president for academic planning and development, and dean for academic support and undergraduate studies.

V.P.'s Duties Change After Reorganization Plan

The Offices of the Vice-presidents comprise the basic organizational units of the University. The activities of these men affect every phase of university life from registration to graduation to alumni functions, from libraries to dorm rooms to sports and concerts. They spend many hours unseen and seldom recognized to supply the services and support necessary to keep the University one of the most respected regional universities in the country. When President Powell announced the reorganization plan, many of the tasks of the vice-presidents changed. The purpose of the reorganization was to place like-functions together which, in an organization as interrelated as a university, is no easy matter.

The Office of Development, formerly known as Public Affairs, under the direction of Donald R. Feltner, contains the Divisions of Development, Alumni Affairs and Public Information. The Office is charged with the responsibility to maintain and enhance the image of the University and to provide a means by which friends of the University may support its programs.

Dr. William E. Sexton, Vice-president for Administrative Affairs, formerly known as Public Service and Special Programs, directs the operations of the Hummel Plantarium, academic computing, radio and television, special programs, and the newly assigned division of Physical Plant.

Vice-president for Business Affairs, under the supervision of Earl Baldwin, must see to it that the University remains solvent and financially accountable. University auxiliary enterprises such as the bookstore and food services as well as the campus telephone system and printing services are directed by Mr. Baldwin.

The Office of Academic Affairs, under Dr. John D. Rowlett is responsible for all phases of academic life, from registration to graduation and from class scheduling to transcripts.

Dr. Thomas D. Meyers, Vice-president for Student Affairs, provides many of the services that make life at the University a little special, including residence hall programs, student activities, financial aid, student health services, chaplain and counseling centers.

DR. ROBERT R. MARTIN

A Strong Advocate For Higher Education And Our University

President Emeritus Dr. Robert R. Martin continued to serve the Commonwealth of Kentucky as Senator for the 22nd District. After serving his alma mater as president for sixteen years, retirement was in name only for the man who has dedicated his life to education at all levels. Shortly after stepping down as Eastern's president, he was elected to the Senate where he continues to be a strong advocate for higher education and Eastern while serving on the Appropriations and Revenue Committee; Health and Welfare Committee and Vice-Chairman of Education.

Dr. Martin and his wife, Anne, still make their home in Richmond, adjacent to the campus which so vividly bares the mark of his leadership during the growing years of the 60's. When Dr. Martin became President in 1960, Eastern had an enrollment of 2,967 and by his retirement in 1976 enrollment had grown to 13,430. The physical plant had a value of $7 million in 1960 and $120 million in 1976.

He also actively supports the University by attending many of the special functions on the campus, whether they be sporting events or concerts.

Hall of Fame Recipient . . . Annette Ohlmann

Academics has always been Annette Ohlmann's first priority. So, her reaction to being named the recipient of the Hall of Fame award was one of surprise. "I feel honored," said Ohlmann. "This is the first time that I have been recognized for my academic achievements."

The Hall of Fame is awarded to one of the outstanding students elected from each of the nine colleges. Annette, representing the College of Natural and Mathematical Sciences, is majoring in computer science with a grade point average of 3.650. After graduation in May, Annette plans to get a job and to eventually obtain a masters degree in business and economics.

A senior from Louisville, Annette remained active in campus organizations, serving as the President of the Student Association, a member of Kappa Mu Epsilon, a mathematics honorary, and Mortar Board, a senior honorary. She is also active in the University Pals program, Catholic Newman Center-Newman Council, Association of Computing Machinery and the Kentucky Intercollegiate State Legislature, of which she served as attorney general and treasurer in 1982-83.

This year, Annette also served the University as the Student Regent to the Board of Regents.

She attended the University on a University Presidential Scholarship.

Helping Students with Academic Decisions is the Goal of Academic Support and Undergraduate Studies

General education is a component of all degree programs; therefore, the University decided to develop the Office of Academic Support and Undergraduate Studies in 1977. Recently, the office has changed by adding new programs to further accommodate the needs of the student.

The programs provide various services to the student: The General Education Program, Undergraduate Academic Advising, Developmental Studies, Cooperative Education, the Trio Program, academic support services and the various offices all provide services, including the Registrar. According to Jack Culross, Dean of Academic Support and Undergraduate Studies, these programs were designed to make it easier for students to get the help they need for academics.

About one-third of all students entering college today do not declare a major when they first enroll. Through the Office of Academic Support and Undergraduate Studies, a student is advised and counseled for problems pertaining to their major. Furthermore, the office assists students in finding information on employment trends and salaries.

One change that the Office of Academic Support and Undergraduate Studies has administered is the appointment of a new dean, Dr. Jack Culross. Prior to his position as dean, Dr. Culross was the assistant dean of the office. He has been employed by the University since 1970 as acting assistant dean for the College of Arts and Sciences and as an English professor.

The office is designed to help students not in social life but in academic life. Dean Culross said, "If a student has a problem, we want them to know that they can come to the Office of Academic Support and Undergraduate Studies when they don't know where else to go."

Students acquire practical experience at Graduate School

Students have the option to further their learning beyond the basic four year degree at the University by enrolling in the Graduate School. Presently, the University offers 34 masters degree programs — several of these having different options available within the degree program.

The University also tries to encourage enrollment in its Graduate School to all qualified undergraduate students.

There are, however, certain standards to be met in order to enter Graduate School. Those applying for entry must have an undergraduate degree, a 2.4

grade point average and must do sufficiently well on their Graduate Record Examination. Foreign students are also encouraged to enroll in Graduate School and must meet the same standards as the other students. They must, in addition, have a verifiable proficiency in English.

Dean Charles Gibson said that the goal of the Graduate School is to "provide the highest quality instruction that the institution can provide." Graduate courses have been offered at the University since the 1930's, with the first Masters degree being given in 1942.

Many of the University's graduate students work while taking graduate classes. Approximately 150 jobs are available to students on campus through graduate assistantships.

In his opinion, Dean Gibson said that the University rates well with other universities in Kentucky. According to Gibson, the graduates "tend to be very competitive in the job market, and compete as well as students at any other college."

Providing High Quality Programs Is The Goal of College of Allied Health and Nursing

With the University's large amount of continuing education students, the College of Allied Health and Nursing expects high academic standards, since, according to Dean David D. Gale, there is also a large job market for the graduates.

The College offers nine degree programs in the areas of Emergency Medical Care, Environmental Health Science, Health Record Science, Medical Assisting Technology, Medical Technology Lab, Baccalaureate Nursing, Associate Degree Nursing, Occupational Therapy and Continuing Education. Three of these programs have a 100% passing rate on their state board exams.

Besides classroom work, the students get clinical experience. This way, they get learning experience in their field of study. They go to different hospitals in the area including the U.K. Medical Center, the Shriners Hospital, the Danville Hospital, and the Kenwood Nursing Home.

Each degree program has a certain GPA that must be met before admittance and kept throughout to stay in that particular program. The goal of the College is to provide high quality programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels for individuals who wish to pursue a health profession.

The Outstanding Teacher for the College of Allied Health and Nursing is Dr. Gladys Masagatani, associate professor of Occupational Therapy. Dr. Masagatani, in her second year at the University, feels that both student and teacher should come prepared for class to get the most out of it.

Administering Functional Experience is the Objective of College of Applied Arts and Technology

The College of Applied Arts and Technology provides all types of practical experience in education by offering opportunities in shops, laboratories, studios, radio and television stations, papers, greenhouses, and other establishments in industry. According to Dean Kenneth Hansson, all kinds of opportunities are offered on and off-campus.

Recently, the College added a new area of study to its curriculum, aviation. The program, which is approved by the Federal Aviation Administration, is a private pilot flight program. Dean Hansson said that the program was developed with the idea of offering associate and baccalaureate degrees.

The College provides instructional programs in the applied arts and technological fields. Associate, baccalaureate, master's and specialist degrees are available through the Departments of Agriculture, Home Economics, Industrial Education and Technology, and Mass Communications. Also, the College offers a four-year Army Reserve Officer's Training Corps (ROTC) program through the Department of Military Science.

Diane Vachon, assistant professor of home economics, was voted by students and faculty as the Outstanding Teacher in the College. She said that winning the Excellence in Teaching Award was an exceptional honor since it comes from the students.

The College selected Thomas Barr, a 4.0 senior majoring in journalism, as the Outstanding Student. Thomas has received the University Foundation Scholarship and the National Trust Fund (Graphics Arts) Scholarship for four years. Other accomplishments include the University Dean's List, Kappa Tau Alpha, Society of Professional Journalists, and Editor-In-Chief of the Eastern Progress.

Providing practical experience in and out of the classroom will always be an important aspect in the College because the faculty takes a great deal of pride in it. In concluding, Dean Hansson said, "You can talk a lot about being a journalist, but we think it is important that you have some experience, too."

Reorganization of Departments was the Key for College of Arts and Humanities

The College of Arts and Humanities has undergone many changes since 1979 according to Dean John Long. The 1979 reorganization solved many problems, especially that of having too many unrelated fields under one college. The reorganization also helped link related departments with those of similar educational emphasis.

The College sponsored the Alumni Careers Seminar for the benefit of Arts and Humanities majors, undeclared students, and other interested students and faculty. A panel of University alumni discussed their widely varied careers. A panel of employers representing General Telephone Company, Ashland Oil, and Metropolitan Insurance also discussed career opportunities for Arts and Humanities graduates in their firms.

Dawn Marsh is the outstanding student from the College. Dawn's major is English and French/teaching with a grade point average of 3.87. Dawn has received the Phi Kappa Phi recognition of high scholastic achievement and the University Foundation Scholarship.

The Outstanding Teacher for the College is Dr. Un-chol Shin, professor of humanities. Shin said that what he is basically trying to do in his teaching is to help bring back the human quality so we can control machines instead of machines controlling us.

The College offers two graduate degrees, in English and in music. Involvement in such activities as musical ensembles, theatre practicum, and art exhibits are often required for Arts and Humanities majors to help in the application of their skills. Dean Long said, "Eastern's Arts and Humanities program is very strong, respected by other colleges, and is a source of pride to me and ECU."

Giving Students Hands-on Experience is the Goal of College of Business

"The purpose of this college is to serve Kentucky and contiguous states of the central U.S." Those are the words of Dr. Howard Thompson who has served as the Dean of the College of Business since 1973.

The College of Business has specifically served this region by moving into degree programs which are not offered at surrounding colleges. Some areas are health care administration, transportation and physical distribution management, insurance, real estate, and most importantly for Kentucky, coal mining administration.

The College is also concerned with the needs of the student. The new advising system is one unique way the College has met these needs. "Rather than the traditional faculty adviser system, there is now a central advising office with a staff on duty from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., including the noon hour," said Thompson. "Students can come here anytime and receive advising assistance."

Thompson added that such things as computer-assisted business games, small business institute cases, case studies, and cooperative course studies enable students to gain hands-on experience which will prepare them for the business world. "Computer skills are being incorporated into business courses," added Thompson.

The Outstanding Teacher for the College of Business is Dr. Bertee Adkins. Adkins attributes his success in the classroom to the good rapport he possesses with the students. Also, "I like to think I'm doing some good and when you realize you have helped someone to learn something, then you feel good," said Adkins. He teaches courses in business communication, advanced typing, and introduction to business.

Karen Evans, with a grade-point average of 3.94 is the Outstanding Student for the College of Business. Evans is an accounting major from Corbin, Ky. When she graduates in May, she plans to work with Deloitte, Haskins and Sells, an accounting firm in Lexington.

The Production of Outstanding Teachers Is The Aim of College of Education

Producing the state's largest amount of teachers is the distinction of the College of Education. There is a great need for mathematics and science teachers, but an overabundance of physical education and health teachers. According to Dixon Barr, the Dean of the College of Education, the "job opportunities for education majors (teachers) are improving somewhat."

The Department of Curriculum and Instruction provides eligibility for provisional certification in elementary education which is valid for teaching grades one through eight if you have completed the baccalaureate degree in elementary education. To teach kindergarten, an additional 11 hours is required.

In Special Education, programs are offered leading to the baccalaureate degree in three areas of Special Education (Learning and Behavior Disorders, Trainable Mentally Handicapped, and Hearing Impaired) and in Communication Disorders. The special education student receives a certificate to teach in grades one through eight and provisional certification in the area of specialization.

Secondary education majors are students in colleges other than the College of Education. They major in whatever it is they want to teach. Then, they take their teaching courses in the College of Education.

The Outstanding Teacher for the College of Education is Dr. John Anglin, professor of educational psychology. He has been at the University for 12 years. He feels that teaching takes time, isn't necessarily easy, but is rewarding. "A teacher has to like people, to have concern for the student and he has to be well prepared in the field," said Dr. Anglin.

The College of Education's Outstanding Student is Pamela Morris with a GPA of 3.77. The elementary education major is a transfer student from Hazard Community College. She is involved in Kappa Delta Pi, an education honorary and Kappa Delta Tau, a service sorority.

College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics

"Meeting the student's needs," explained Dean Russell Bogue, "is the College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics' primary concern. We are constantly reviewing programs and curriculums to fit the student's needs," he said. Within the College are the Departments of Health Education, Physical Education, Recreation and Park Administration and Athletic Services. Formerly, these departments were part of the College of Education; however, in 1979, the College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics was formed due to its growth.

The College promotes student creativity and gives students the opportunity to express feelings. Lectures, on-site visitations and group discussions are effective methods of teaching. "The experience the program offers really contributes to the program. It gives an idea of what your career will be like," said Karla Ross, a sophomore P.E. major from Hamilton, Ohio. Field trips are offered from the different departments to further the students' learning and add interest to the curriculum. "The teaching is tremendous; instructors cover everything well. I was referred to Eastern because of its great reputation for P.E. majors. They do a great job of preparing me for a teaching career," said Karen Stayton, a sophomore from Lebanon, Ky.

Stuart Wilson, a physical education major from Franklin, Ohio, was chosen the Outstanding Student of the College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics. He has achieved a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 and a 3.85 average in his major. Stuart was also nominated by the Department of Physical Education for the "Who's Who" award.

Offering the Students a Wide Range of Options Is The Aim of College of Law Enforcement

The College of Law Enforcement offers the student one degree with a wide range of options. Correctional services, fire prevention and control, police administration, and forensic science, security, and traffic safety options are available for the student to choose. Since its birth in 1966, it has grown tremendously, becoming one of Eastern's largest programs. Students from Kentucky and other states, as well, turn to Eastern for their law enforcement education. A large percentage of students hail from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Florida, New York, and Tennessee. Art Longnaker, a senior law enforcement major from Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, is part of a program that incorporates education between Harrisburg Area Community College and Eastern. "I came to Eastern because a teacher at HACC, an alumnus of Eastern, Elmer Crisswell, recommended the College to finish my education," explained Longnaker.

The services are the aspect Dean Truett Ricks feels are important. "We emphasize counseling and try to provide the services the student needs," he said. Maintaining quality and recruiting students are two of the college's aims. "There was a time when the college was growing so rapidly we didn't have time to emphasize quality," explained Dean Ricks. Since, there has been a slight decrease in enrollment and extended emphasis is placed on the quality of education. The college also stresses the importance of teaching. "Teaching is number one," concluded Dean Ricks.

Students are benefitted by a Two-Day Career Day, sponsored by the Association of Law Enforcement. It is open to all students in the college. Lucielle Robucks, law enforcement advisor, explained, "The organization tries to integrate the freshmen members and offers community service. We also sponsor speakers, films, and activities."

The College of Law Enforcement's Outstanding Teacher is Dr. James Fox, professor of Correctional Services. "One cannot say he is outstanding compared to his colleagues. I feel I am not that much different than anyone else. I take information and try to get the student interested and to understand and be concerned how it affects him and others," said Dr. Fox.

The College of Law Enforcement's Outstanding Student is John Gill, a Senior majoring in police administration and Mathematics. John has a 3.9 grade point average in police administration, a 3.3 in mathematics and a cumulative grade point average of 3.62.

Students Prepare for Pre-professional Fields and Research in College of Natural and Mathematical Sciences

Thompson

The College of Natural and Mathematical Sciences strives to provide courses of study for academic specialization in the natural and mathematical sciences and to offer programs to prepare students for pre-professional fields and for graduate study and research. Also, serving the community and region through public service and engaging in research to advance knowledge and enhance the primary function of instruction is an important aspect of the College.

The College offers the degrees of Associate of Science, Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, and Bachelor of Individualized Studies. Degrees are awarded in the areas of biology, chemistry, computer science, earth science, environmental resources, fisheries management, geology, mathematics, microbiology, physics, statistics, and wildlife management.

Reviewing and Updating Programs is a Continuing Goal of College of Social & Behavioral Sciences

The College of Social and Behavioral Sciences offers degrees in anthropology, sociology, social work, economics, geography, planning and development, transportation systems, history, political science, legal assistance and psychology. In addition, the college offers internship programs for the departments of psychology, political science, legal assistance and sociology.

The high standards of excellence in education from this college are partially due to a continuous system of examining the strengths and weaknesses of each department. This system involves long-range planning of five years which reviews the department's progress and makes improvements.

Reid Luhman, professor of sociology, was named the Outstanding Teacher of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences. During his ten years at the University, he has been involved in numerous scholastic achievements and has written a textbook.

Deborah Lynn Bishop was chosen as the Outstanding Student for the College. Her major is sociology with a GPA of 3.86. She has been on the college Dean's List. In addition, she was nominated for Who's Who Among American College Students and was recognized by Phi Kappa Phi for outstanding scholarship.

Marching Maroons Create A Special Spirit

There is certainly no sleeping late and pretending you don't know that there is a football game on campus with the Marching Maroons around. Pre-game festivities begin before the band even takes the field, with the traditional march across campus to the stadium.

Something inspiring happens when the band plays. It is more than just the patriotic feeling one gets when they hear "The Star-Spangled Banner" or "My Old Kentucky Home." It is that special stir deep inside when the trumpets blare "Fight," "Go" or the all-time favorite, the EKU Fight song, that never fails to get the crowd to its feet.

The band contributes to the spirit-making at the University in many ways. They play at all home football and basketball games along with providing the music at special pep rallies, parades and indoor concerts.

The 144-piece Marching Maroon Band, directed for the past two years by Director Robert Belsar, exhibits just another facet of what has come to be known at the University as "A Matter of Pride."

PROGRESS GIVES NEWS TO STUDENTS

For 62 years, the Eastern Progress has served the University community as the campus newspaper. It has become an important asset to the campus, bringing important issues, money-saving coupons and humorous cartoons into the lives of its students.

Under the leadership of Editor Thomas Barr and Managing Editor Mark Campbell, the Progress was printed weekly and distributed to the students free of charge. A laboratory publication of the Department of Mass Communications, the paper gave journalism students an opportunity to gain some practical experience by working on an actual newspaper, from start to finish.

Putting out a newspaper is hard work but the staff managed to accomplish the task weekly with little worry, and the final product made all of the work worthwhile.

A WAY OF LIFE

Greek is a way of life for many sorority women and fraternity men. A way of life that entails a tremendous amount of dedication and devotion in promoting fellowship in all forms.

An often unseen facet of Greek life is the degree of camaraderie shared among the group members and how it is expressed outwardly so that others may share in their warmth and sincerity.

Many sororities and fraternities' foundations are based upon the principles of sisterhood and brotherhood and these principles are manifest for the betterment of society. Service to mankind is the ultimate goal for many Greeks.

Being Greek is a lifetime commitment; committing him or herself to serving society.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

The governing bodies of the campus fraternities and sororities are the Interfraternity Council and the Panhellenic Council. Both council's stated purpose is to foster communications and good relations between fraternities and sororities and to cooperate with these organizations as well as the University administration.

Panhellenic-IFC provided its members with a variety of services such as public relations during Rush and acting as a resource file to obtain various information.

Service projects for Panhellenic-IFC included picking up trash in the Richmond community for the Leukemia Society, raking leaves in the community for the United Way, and caroling on campus during Christmas. This past year, Panhellenic-IFC put into motion a Greeks-in-Action Program with a goal in initiating a Big Sister-Big Brother program. This program involved members of fraternities and sororities adopting an area youth as a little brother or little sister.

Panhellenic-IFC's faculty advisor is Nancy Holt.

Kappa Delta sorority promoted true friendship among college girls by incorporating into their hearts and lives those principles of truth, honor, and duty, without which there can be no true friendship.

Kappa Delta gave 85 girls a place which they could call home. Kappa Delta is a social sorority that gave its members a chance to grow socially while they were at the University. Debra Core was the group's adviser.

During the fall, they visited area nursing homes and took 75 head-start children roller skating during one afternoon. They participated in the March of Dimes drive which was held on campus. Also, they worked closely with their national philanthropy, the National Burn Center in Chicago, Ill.

Delta Omicron Chapter of Kappa Delta was installed on campus on December 7, 1968. The colors of Kappa Delta are olive green and pearl white with a white rose as the sorority's flower. The Delta Mu chapter of Kappa Alpha stressed the high ideals of character and achievement pledged by their organization, the Order of Christian Knights. They are dedicated to the preservation of standards of culture and Christian chivalry as manifested in the customs, habits and character of Robert E. Lee, their Spiritual founding father.

KA is a learning and growing experience that stresses scholarship, social activities and friendship as well as brotherhood. Kappa Alpha, the oldest fraternity on campus, was founded on February 14, 1969, and celebrated their 15th anniversary in February of this year.

The KA's participated in all Greek and campus-wide activities, including the United Way campaign. At Halloween, the brothers visited Kenwood

The brothers held several activities this year, with proceeds going to their philanthropy, the Muscular Dystrophy Association. These activities included their annual Casino Night and the first annual KA Master's Golf Tournament.

Also in the spring, the KA's held their annual Old South, a celebration of their southern heritage. During that week, the brothers held a pig roast and sponsored a dance in Tennessee, in which they dressed in the traditional Confederate uniforms of the Civil War.

Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity was founded in 1911 at Indiana University. The organization conducted a number of services for students including a prep school tutorial program, career opportunity and job placement services and emergency loan programs on more than 100 campuses. The fraternity also has been involved in social action and has contributed to the NAACP, the United Negro College Fund and the Urban League.

The Eta Alpha Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi stressed achievement in every human endeavor. The fraternity provided close personal and business relations within the membership in order to carry out the fundamental purpose and goals of the fraternity.

The fraternity established the Guide Right Program which was designed to work for others. The Kappa's service to the community consisted of working with Juvenile Diabetes, aiding Richmond residents in moving, and giving to the United Way of the Bluegrass. Other service projects included raking leaves for elderly Richmond citizens, participation in the Special Olympics, a can food drive for Kentucky River Foothill Agency and working with Big Brothers of Lexington.

The Eta Alpha Chapter also received an achievement award for excelling in the Guide Right Program during the March, 1983 Provincial Meeting.

Eta Alpha was founded on April 14, 1973 on campus. The group's adviser is Dan Bertsons.

Phi Beta Sigma fraternity was founded on campus on March 24, 1977. The success of the group can be attributed to the group's adviser, Michael Elam.

The fraternity stresses academics to its members, along with an intermingling with other activities and groups on campus.

They sponsored a Halloween party for the children at the Telford Community Center. They also went door-to-door in the Richmond community to encourage people to register to vote. This turned out to be a great contributor to the final balloting results.

During the spring, the fraternity sponsored a Fashion Show, Canned Food Drive for First Baptist Church and passed out buttons for Martin Luther King's birthday.

Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. was founded in 1914 at Howard University. The organization, which supports various civic groups, is committed to academic excellence, and through its Phi Beta Sigma Education Foundation provides a number of academic scholarships. The fraternity has conducted national seminars on voter education, and the group has worked with congressional members on setting legislative goals.

Service and social activities have always been active parts of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

The Phi Delt's supported both the EKU Colonels and their national philanthropy, Lou Gehrig's Disease, by selling spirit hats. Also, the Phi Delt's showed their enthusiasm by ushering seats for each home football game.

With the highest GPA of Greek organizations on campus the Phi Delt's found a path to win the National Scholarship Award.

Phi Delta Theta also found time to remain active in intramural sports. They placed second in soccer and participated in football, racquetball, and tennis.

Phi Delt's are known to the Greek system as being involved! They have been active in the SAE County Fair, DZ Frat Man Classic, Phi Mu Swim-a-thon, ADPi Road Rally and Greek Week.

Involvement was the key word this year for the brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. The Pikes celebrated their 15th anniversary on campus in style this year by participating in all Greek activities, including DZ Frat Man Classic, Beta Football, TKE Basketball Tourney, ADPi Road Rally and Homecoming. The Pike fire truck, a symbol of the fraternity, was seen around campus various times throughout the year.

Athletically, the brothers won second place in the All-Sports Trophy and won first place in intramural volleyball in 1983. This year, the Pikes finished first in the intramural tug-of-war for the fourth straight year, and won the intramural golf championship, thanks to brother John Burch.

But the brothers were also active civically as they helped raise money for the Kentucky Diabetes Foundation and the Big Brothers of America, their National philanthropy.

Pikes also sponsored their annual Pike's Peak Week, which was highlighted by the calendar pageant. Pi Kappa Alpha proudly sponsors the Pike Dream Girl Calendar every year.

Pi Kappa Alpha was founded on campus in 1968.

The Sigma Chi's proved once again that there is more than one derby in Kentucky. The annual Sigma Chi Derby was a big success and a great time. The proceeds went to their national philanthropy, the Wallace Village for Children.

The Eta Alpha Chapter of Sigma Chi received the revered Peterson Significant Award which recognizes outstanding performance in major fields of operation. They received it at the Leadership Training Workshop in Bowling Green, Ohio.

The Sigs again sent a lucky pair to the Bahamas for a weekend at their annual Suitcase Party last spring. The party proceeds benefited the United Way.

Sigma Chi's also participated in intramural sports, Greek Week and sorority activities such as the Delta Zeta Frat Man's Classic and the Alpha Delta Pi Road Rally.

This year's Homecoming dance was at the Sheraton Inn in Lexington and the annual Spring Formal was held at Howard Johnson's in Knoxville, TN.

Sigma Nu fraternity had a definite purpose in promoting brotherhood. Based on the "ideas of love, honor and truth," Sigma Nu was founded at Virginia Military Institute on January 1, 1869. Supporting the fraternity colors of gold, black and white, the initiation of the Theta Theta Chapter of Sigma Nu saw the first local Greek social fraternity organized at Eastern Kentucky University since 1970.

The organization benefited its members by furthering their college experiences to achieve excellence in all fields of academics and athletics. Herb Vesces also helped the members by contributing to the group as their advisor.

Traditionally, to make money for various charities, Sigma Nu runs the football to either Morehead or Western for the annual football game.

In the spirit of Christmas, they again carried on traditions as they prepared the wreaths and ropes of garland for the annual Hanging of the Greens which ushered in the season for the Eastern community.

The brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon continued their tradition of scholastics and brotherhood that have been stressed by the fraternity since its founding on campus in 1968.

Following their motto, "Friendship for Life," TKE continued to stress brotherhood and social as well as scholastics. The fact that they are only one of two fraternities with a house helps the brothers to remain united as well as giving them a central meeting place.

Service-wise, the TKE's collected money for and helped with the Special Olympics and held various fundraisers for the St. Jude Children's Hospital in Memphis, Tennessee.

Socially, the brothers participated in the Delta Zeta Frat Man Classic, the SAE County Fair, Greek Week and all intramural sports. In addition, the TKE's sponsored their annual basketball tournament for all Greek and independent teams.

The young Zeta Phi Beta sorority kept busy this past year with scholastic and service projects. The Mu Lambda Chapter stressed scholastic achievement and offered the Lizzie Muller Scholarship to a Richmond high-school senior girl with outstanding academic ability. They also hosted Zeta Week and sponsored a Mr. Muscles Contest to raise money for the scholarship fund.

They also visited patients at Pattie A. Clay Hospital at Easter, and at Shriner's Hospital for Christmas.

It began as only an idea in the mind of the editor. Then, through months of planning, organizing, training, staffing, cropping pictures, typing copy and numerous headaches, the 61st edition of the University's yearbook became a reality.

Few people can appreciate the hard work and dedication required by the staff in putting a college yearbook together. The staff endured many all-night sessions and mounting pressures as deadline time drew near and pages needed completing. However, the hard-working staff met those pressures and came through like professionals.

Few students also realize the fact that the University is the only university in the state that does not charge a fee for the yearbook, and contrary to popular belief, there is no deduction from student's activity fees for the cost of the book.

The 1984 staff had added incentive to carry on the Milestone tradition. The 1983 book was awarded a first place rating and an Award of Excellence in photography from the American Scholastic Press Association in September. It was just one of the numerous awards received by the book over the 50 years in which the Milestone tradition has endured.

College Life . . . An Experience

The year 1983-84 happened, and we all experienced it in our own way. The events we participated in, the friends we made, the things we learned are all "unique" for they can never be relived again. They are a part of the year that has passed; the year that is capsulized in this bound volume of the Milestone.

We all went to class, we studied, we learned. We fellowshiped, we played, we grew. We worked together, we played together, we prayed together. This, and much more, we experienced in this year at the University.

This year gave each of us an opportunity to experience ourselves, as well as the people that we encountered. But, all in all, every single thing that we did or allowed to happen to us affected our experience of the year. A year that will never take place in the same order or fashion, again.

The Road Taken

Two roads converged on memory lane,
And glad that I could travel it,
I joined my daily life and destiny with friends,
And we moved on down as far as we could go . . .
To where it disappeared beyond the stately trees.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads converged on memory lane,
and I joined others on the way
As we shared our faith and fortunes . . .
And that has made all the difference.

—Apologies to Robert Frost

The road taken . . . College. The decision each of us made to come to college affected this year and so did every other choice or decision that we made during our nine-month stay here at the University.

In a year such as this one, individuals come together to grow, learn, and develop. So that when it comes time to move on—out into that “other world”—that we might find success. This most train for, yet others simply set their sights on mere survival.

Time goes on, we will mature, and then we will look back to our college experience and realize that what that experience has done for us, has made all of the difference.

EDITORS NOTE

The last deadline has been completed, and another edition of the Milestone has been produced. In this volume we worked to capture significance, and I must say we were largely successful in doing so.

It takes the help of many people to produce a yearbook; therefore, I have a long list of people to thank for their input.

First, I would like to thank this year's hard-working staff who devoted many long hours into producing these pages . . . on deadline.

I would like to extend a very special thanks to Mike Hall, my right and left arm. Without you, Mike, I may not have survived the year.

Dean'a Moore, I thank for her abundant supply of munchies that enabled us to make it through the many all-nighters, and also for her hard work and dedication.

Larry Bailey, I thank you for handling my excitement and encouraging me through the rough spots.

To my outstanding section editors: Jannene Maudlin, Melanie Corwin, Scott Wilson, Jon Stewart, Diana Smith, Lee Ann Webb, and Lori Jenkins— You all are great! Thanks for all the time and energy you put into your sections.

Thanks to all the people at Delmar who have made my years of work on the Milestone, and my many trips to Charlotte, times I will never forget. Special thanks to Bill Stoess and Becky Alexander who work so hard for us.

Thanks to: Kevin Grimm for his "Life at EKU" cartoon, Ralph Van Dyke for his talented script writing used throughout the book, Ron Wolfe for his poem version — "The Road Taken", and Billboard Magazine for the top-hit information.

Thanks to Public Information for the supply of photographs. I appreciate your hard work and cooperation, especially at those times when we were all under pressure.

To President Powell and Dr. Donald Feltner, thank you for your continued support of the Milestone. I hope you are pleased with Volume 61.

To the students of the University — I hope you enjoy the 1984 Milestone as much as I have enjoyed the efforts that I have put into it. I hope you will treasure this book now and for years to come, as I will.

Good Luck to next year's Editor and staff, please keep the high-class tradition of the Milestone continuing.

Nichelle Bryan

1983-84 Editor
